MYSTERY HIDES DOUBLE MURDER OF RICH COUPLE

RETIRED BROKER AND WIFE
SLAIN IN EVANSTON

ARE FOUND BY THE SERVANTS

Deed Puzzles Police, Who Can Find
No Clue to Perpetrators of Ugly Crime

CHICAGO, Sept. 7.—Mystery baffles the police in a double tragedy enacted last night in the "swellest" portion of Evanston, the victims of which are Frederick M. Fish and his wife.

The couple did not appear at the usual hour this morning, and a servant went to their apartment. Mrs. Fish was dead, her head crushed by a blow from some blunt instrument. Fish was dying, his throat slashed from ear to ear. He was gasping in death when discovered. They were probably slain as they slept.

Fish is a wealthy broker, retired, and the family is highly respected. There was no sign of a struggle in the room, and the suicide and murder theory seems not justified, as the instrument with which Mrs. Fish is killed is missing and no knife or razor was near her husband. Nothing was missing from the house, and robbery seems improbable as a motive.

There was no family trouble so far as known, and no enemies of Fish are known to exist. It is evident that the servant came upon the scene almost on the minute of the murder, yet the perpetrator escaped without leaving a clue.

PRESIDENT'S TOOTH SET IN GREAT RING OFFERED FOR SALE

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—A long time ago, after screwing up his courage to the point of having an aching molar pulled, President Roosevelt presented it to the eccentric Lulu B. Glover, whose love of him and her cats was the occasion of comment at the time of her recent death. Mrs. Glover had the tooth set in a ring, with two great diamonds. When she died, it will be remembered, she made the president her sole legatee. Cats, lands, moneys, relics—all were his. The president ordered that the estate be sold, and the proceeds devoted to charity, and now the toothful chief executive is confronted by the fact that one of his teeth, mounted with jewels, is offered for public sale, and that if some of the big trusts he has bitten be not afraid, they can possess themselves of one of the "teeth that bite" that make deadly the anti-corporation "bander snatch."

THE SONS OF LEE AND SHERIDAN SQUABBLE

CHICAGO, Sept. 7.—A new army scandal is to have departmental attention, the squabble terminating the practice march of the Thirteenth cavalry having assumed serious proportions. The sensation is of interest in high places, for among the officers of the battalion are Philip Sheridan, Jr., son of the illustrious civil war general, and Fitzhugh Lee, Jr., whose father fought through both the Spanish-American wars.

There is open rupture between Lieut. J. W. Wilen, who left the officers' mess two weeks ago following a quarrel with one of his fellow officers.

Lieut. Wilen is open in his criticism of the conduct of the officers. "I could not stand the action of some of the officers," he said, "and I quit their mess; for two weeks I have been eating in my own tent. I told one of them what I thought of him and withdrew."

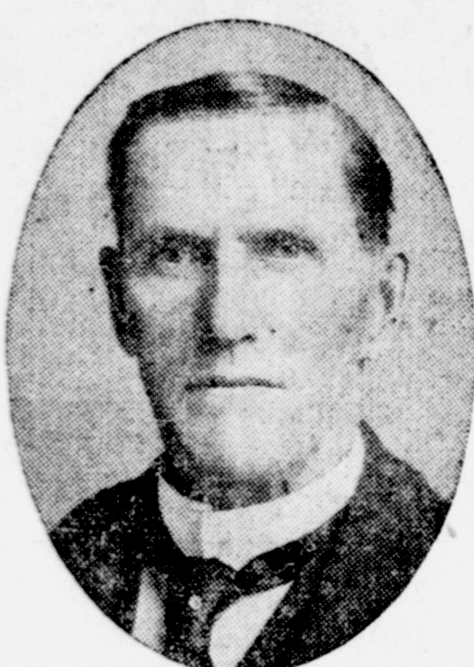

AWAITS MARRIAGE IN 20-YEAR COURTSHIP

LONDON, Sept. 7.—The first application for a marriage license under the new deceased wife's sister law was made in Aberdeen yesterday. The license was granted. The couple were both above 60 years, and had been barred by the old law during a courtship of 20 years.

KILLS WAYWARD BOY BEFORE HIS MOTHER

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 7.—Christian Kelly, 47 years old, stabbed and killed his son, Christian, a boy of 20 years, in the presence of his mother and sister. The tragedy was the result of difficulty owing to the son's habits. The broken hearted father is under arrest.

THE LATE ANDREW McELDOWNEY, SALEM

Andrew McElDowney, who died at his home in West Salem a few days ago, was one of the best known residents of the western part of the state and had been prominent in the commercial and political life in La Crosse county for many years. Mr. McElDowney was presumed to be worth a fortune, but the probating of his will Thursday developed the fact that he left only about $5,000.

MESSERCHMIDT TO WED MISS SCHLAER

THIRD ASSISTANT ATTORNEY
GENERAL TO TAKE BRIDE

A MENOMONIE FOLKS GIRL

Ceremony at Madison to Be Notable Society Event in State Official Circles

MADISON, Wis., Sept. 7.—(Special.)—A wedding of considerable interest will be celebrated next Thursday, Sept. 12, when Miss Adeline Schlafer of Menomonie Falls becomes the bride of Joseph E. Messerschmidt of Madison, third assistant attorney general. The event will occur at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Schlafer, at 4 o'clock p. m., the ceremony to be performed by Rev. Henry Erfmeyer, pastor of the Evangelical Association church of Menomonie Falls. Only the immediate relatives of the contracting parties are invited to attend.

Following the ceremony the couple will go on a honeymoon trip in the east for ten days, visiting Niagara Falls, Toronto and Buffalo, but returning to Madison about Sept. 24, so that the bride may re-enter the university to complete her senior year. They will make their home at "The Hamilton."

Miss Schlafer is well known in Milwaukee. She graduated from the normal school there and later taught in the high school at Menomonie Falls. She entered the university last year.

Mr. Messerschmidt is a graduate of the university and of the law school. He afterwards practiced law in this city and two years ago was appointed state law examiner by Attorney General L. M. Sturdevant. He has recently been promoted to the position of third assistant attorney general. He has been prominent in republican politics in this country.

DIDN'T THE BANK WAS BUSTED 10 YEARS

ALTOONA, Pa., Sept. 7.—George Russell, aged 80, of Blue Knobs, visited Hollidaysburg this morning to withdraw $50 from Gardner, Morrow & Co., which closed its doors in September, 1896, and was dumfounded when he heard the bank had failed. It was the first he had heard of the collapse. He had in his possession a certificate of deposit for $2,000, the earnings of a lifetime. He broke down and wept like a child.

AUTO SMASHED IN IN ENDURANCE TEST

MORRIS PARK, N. Y., Sept. 7.—The twenty-four hour endurance automobile contest continues to grind out. Lacroix, in a French Renault, had the lead at the end of the tenth hour. The Lozier car 89 got away from Ichoner, dashed from the track, turned a somersault and was smashed. Michener and the machinist were thrown thirty feet in the air, but escaped with slight bruises.

GANS AND BRITT BOTH SURE OF WINNING

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 7.—With the Gans-Britt fight but eight hours off the men are down to weight and both are confident. Gans says he will win in ten rounds; Britt says he will win with a knockout, mixing from the start.

HALL, A PLUNGER, SPENT $315,000 FOR WILDCAT STOCKS

WRECKED BELDING-HALL CO. BY RECKLESS DEALS

HIS CONDUCT WAS CRIMINAL

Chicago Bank Suffers and May Try to Bring Him Back from Canada

CHICAGO, Sept. 7.—The appointment of a receiver for the properties of the Belding-Hall Manufacturing company followed close upon the heels of the discovery by the creditors of the concern that its missing president, Jesse Edson Hall, had appropriated to his own uses at least $315,000 of the corporation's funds.

As far as can be discovered every dollar of this money went into mining stock which was backed up with no tangible property, theatrical ventures which made no money, and other securities which the creditors are willing to sell in a lump for something less than $1,000.

Frank H. Jones of the American Trust and Savings bank has been appointed receiver by Referee in Bankruptcy Eastman in the absence of a District court judge. He immediately took possession of the local offices of the corporation at 136 Monroe street and the three factories at Belding, Mich.

A close examination of the financial operations of the missing corporation head shows astonishing results.

The accounts, which have just been audited, show that Hall for two years had made a practice of distributing the company's funds, in sums varying from $1,000 to $5,000, among irresponsible persons connected with the company. These people, it appears, knew the condition of Hall's finances, and the only reason which his creditors can assign for this open handed generosity with the company's funds is that he was under their influence because of this knowledge. About $40,000 was distributed in this way.

Indications yesterday were that Hall would not voluntarily return from Canada and that criminal prosecution would be instituted to bring him back to this country by the First National bank, which holds notes of the company aggregating $100,000.

Audit Finished: Heavy Liabilities. The audit of the company's stock at Belding was completed by the experts employed by the creditors' committee late Thursday. The audit showed that the company's direct liabilities amounted to $575,000, with indirect liabilities—including notes which are considered worthless—which will bring the total up to $645,000. Against this indebtedness there were found assets which amounted to but $400,000 to $450,000.

Children's Pathetic Plight. A pathetic feature of the case is the condition of the missing man's two children, who are living at the Hall home in Winnetka in charge of a housekeeper. Since Mr. Hall left Chicago they have received no word from him, neither have they received any money with which to meet the household expenses.

On all previous business trips which took him away from the city Mr. Hall has written daily to his son, a boy of 12 years. His failure to hear from his father in any form has caused the child more worry than the stories of his financial troubles, which he scarcely could understand. "Papa is just away on business. He will be back in a few days," said the child hopefully when questioned by persons who sought his father at the house.

WOMEN AFTER HIM, HE JUMPS TOO FAR

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 7.—Claiming to be the victim of a blackmail plot George C. Sedgwick, 43 years old, is at the city hospital suffering from a sprained ankle received in jumping from a second story window of the Milton hotel. He said he heard two girls in an adjoining room planning to invite him in to see them and then hold him up. He locked his door, and then one of the girls complained to a man across the hall that he had attacked her sister. The man called the clerk of the hotel and Sedgwick jumped from the window, hoping to escape and avoid notoriety.

TELLS OF SHOOTING

BRAZIL, Ind., Sept. 7.—After being confined in the county jail until yesterday, charged with "killing her husband," Dr. Edward Glasgo. She gave a statement to the officers in which she claimed she purchased the revolver to commit suicide, but her husband took it from her and shot himself, then her. She was given a preliminary trial and bound over to the circuit court without bail.

President Finlay of Southern Railroad is in the Limelight

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Sept. 7.—President William Wilson Finlay, of the Southern railway, has been much in the public eye since the conflict between the federal courts and the state courts of South Carolina and Alabama relating to jurisdiction over matters in litigation dealing with the new state 2-cent fare laws which arose some months ago. It is believed that the United States courts will sustain his contentions.

Mr. Finlay succeeded Samuel Spencer as the head of this road shortly after the latter was killed in a railway wreck in Virginia. He was born at Pass Christian, Miss., on September 2, 1853, and started railroad work as a stenographer. He worked hard and went up the line in the traffic department of a dozen railroads, always getting higher positions at each change he made. He was chairman of the Trans-Missouri Traffic association which met at Kansas City from 1889 until 1890. He was made third vice president of the Southern railway on October 1, 1895. He next joined the forces of the Great Northern railway, but was soon back as second vice president of the Southern. His rise has been rapid and he stands as one of the great business getters among railway presidents in this country.

MALICIOUS PROSECUTION?

Plaintiffs Cut Brush for Government
From Taylor's Island and Were Arrested.

On the ground of malicious prosecution, Charles Ott, Genoa, Wis., a government brush contractor, and Joseph Loefflad, an assistant, also of Genoa, each have started an action for $1,000 damages against Charles Blair, 721 North Eighth street, a real estate dealer, who claims ownership of Taylor's island, on which brush was cut on or about Aug. 15. The case will be heard at the fall term of circuit court.

Ott and Loefflad were arrested on Aug. 21 on complaint of Blair, but were discharged by Judge Brindley, when Blair failed to show perfect legal title to the island. It was admitted he had a tax title to a part of the island, but brush was not cut on this portion, claim the defendants. In county court, it is said, Blair made an offer to settle the action, but Attorneys Wolf & Wolf, for Ott and Loefflad refused to entertain a proposition of this nature.

In turn, they promised to begin a civil action for damages, and the suit for damages is the result.

Blair claimed brush was cut on his property on Aug. 15. Ott had the contract to furnish brush to the government, and a permit to cut trees on government land. When Blair appeared before District Attorney Bosshard for a warrant, he was refused and advised not to bring a criminal action, but a civil one, because of his imperfect title to the property. Instead, however, he persisted, and secured a warrant from Judge Brindley. The trial was short, and resulted in the acquittal of the men.

Taylor's island is the property just north of the city, between Black and the Mississippi river. It has had a strange existence, the river washing away a portion, and adding to other parts. The property has changed hands many times, from one lumber company to another, until the final owners failed to pay taxes on it, and Blair secured a tax title to a portion of the land.

The ownership of the island will be established during the trial, and if Blair fails to prove his ownership, the case probably will be decided against him. In event he can show possession he may institute a civil action for damages.

JUDGE REID STARTS ON GERMAN TRIP

Judge Ray S. Reid, state waterways commissioner, left last night for Germany, where he will make an inspection of the German cable system of river traffic, forming a basis of his investigations into methods and means of improving the Mississippi. He will probably be gone a couple of months.

FIND DISEASE TO ERADICATE BUNNY

GERMAN SCIENTIST MAKES A DISCOVERY.

CONTAGION IS EFFECTIVE

By Introduction of Disease Germ the Rabbit Herds Are Killed Off Successfully.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 7.—Officials of the biological survey are greatly interested in unofficial reports to the effect that the German scientist Damszy who has been experimenting for the discovery of a disease that will exterminate the rabbit herds of Australia, has succeeded in his long and patient quest. An official report on the subject is awaited and if it is found that Damszy has really made the discovery he is alleged to have made, inquiries will be set on foot on the part of the biological survey with the object of ascertaining the nature of the disease and whether it can be safely introduced in this country.

The biological survey is interested for the reason the rabbit has become a pest in many parts of this country and for the further reason that it is looking always for light in the solution of the great problem of how to get rid of the rat. Along with the rat, there are other destructive creatures to be destroyed if possible, such as the ground squirrel of the northwest, the prairie dog and like pests. It was announced some months ago that the biological survey was hunting for a disease that would kill off the rats and other vermin that infest the land, but up to date the right disease has not been discovered.

There are some decidedly embarrassing features in connection with the hunt for a disease which will kill off these small four-footed pests. The most prominent one is the fact that the disease of the sort that will effect the necessary destruction are allied to hog cholera and to chicken pox. If the government should set to going a disease for the destruction of rats or rabbits that would also work havoc among the hogs of the United States and raise the price of pork, or that would cut a wide swath in the poultry population of the land and force eggs to prohibitive prices, there would be a protest go up from all sections that would result in congressional inquiry. Hence it is that the biological experts have to be extremely careful what sort of disease they foster, at the same time being under the necessity of getting a disease that shall have the needed high degree of virulence. Great caution is observed about the introduction of diseases from foreign countries, and after it is found that the alleged discovery for the extermination of the Australian rabbit is successful, tests will be made to learn whether it can be safely introduced in the United States.

It is conceded that such methods of extermination as poisoning, trapping and the like are not effective. It is impossible to do this over waste land areas and the result is the pests, though killed off in one locality, soon return in large numbers. The only hope of success lies in the discovery of diseases of the necessary virulence and communicability.

Lately, reports have reached here of a rabbit disease in Wyoming that killed off thousands. An expert was sent out from the biological survey to investigate and has returned with

GHOULS ROB DEAD AND DYING ON BAD WATERLOO WRECK

RESCUERS "GO THROUGH" THE VICTIMS IN DAY

THE SMOKER IS IN KINDLING

Terrible Crash Buries Trucks in Earth Two Feet and Grinds
Men to Pulp.

WATERLOO, Ia., Sept. 7.—Thirteen dead, twelve injured, some of them beyond hope of recovery, and an unknown number of persons missing is the result of one of the most horrible wrecks in the history of Iowa railroads, which occurred yesterday at Norris, Siding, fifteen miles north of Waterloo, when the northbound Rock Island train No. 31 crashed into a freight train.

The scene of the wreck was one of the utmost horror. Nearly all of the dead had their heads crushed in shapeless masses, amink identification difficult, and the names of some are not yet known. All of the killed were in the smoking car. The occupants of the other coaches escaped with only a bad shaking up.

Bodies Are Plundered. The horror of the scene was intensified by the swarming around of a horde of ghoulish plunderers, who robbed alike the dead and injured, in spite of the fact that it was 10:30 o'clock in the morning and broad daylight. Some of them pretended to be offering assistance to the sufferers, and under this pretense succeeded in robbing bodies undetected.

Car Smashed to Splinters. The injured were brought to the Presbyterian hospital in Waterloo. Spreading rails is thought to have caused the disaster.

When the passenger train was about 300 feet from the switch leading to the siding the trucks of the tender leaped from the track. At the speed the train had then attained the tender pulled the locomotive from the rails, and the engine plunged with terrific force squarely into the freight engine. The mail and baggage cars and smoker followed, the other coaches remaining on the track.

Smoker Is Crushed. Both engines were completely demolished, the engineer and fireman on the express train being hurled clear of the wreckage and so escaping death. The trucks of the express locomotive were buried ten feet in the earth.

HANDKERCHIEF OF WOMAN MAY SAVE MRS. J. J. PHILLIPS

CLEVELAND, O., Sept. 7.—Detectives still believe that Mrs. John J. Phillips killed her husband, and that on his death bed he invented the burglar story to shield her. Despite the theory of the police, however, others believe some outsider committed the murder. A woman's handkerchief found on the porch may furnish a clue.

Assistant Prosecutor Mooney takes no stock in a story that a former employee of Phillips is under suspicion. He said last night that while, in his opinion, Mrs. Phillips killed her husband, the crime was not premeditated, but was committed during a quarrel.

"Mrs. Phillips has a violent temper," said Mr. Mooney, "and I am certain that the two had some hot words and the shooting took place then. In order to throw suspicion from his wife Phillips in his last moments said a burglar did it. There is no evidence of burglary. The wound was so inflicted that the man could not have killed himself. None else but Mrs. Phillips and the little girl were in the house. The girl does not count, and there you have it."

MAY BEAR PEARL BUTTON PLANT HERE

John Jacobson, proprietor of the Winona Pearl Button company, is contemplating the removal of his Winona factory to La Crosse, having written certain parties here to ascertain whether he can obtain a suitable building for his factory.

This factory now only employs 14 men, but will employ several more if removed to this city. The men employed are experts in their line, however, and make from 14 to 17 dollars per week working ten hours per day, except on Saturday.

some cultures which he will study and experiment with.

The activity of the biological survey in the effort to find a way to kill off rats and like pests has attracted much notice abroad. Dr. Henshaw, acting chief in Dr. Merriam's absence has received letters on the subject from Germany and various other countries.

SPEAKER WILL RULE IT OUT

Demand For Government Buildings
Likely to Shut Out Waterways
From Appropriation Pot

Washington Bureau of The La Crosse Tribune. WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 7. Pierce and long-sustained will be the assault on the pork barrel session of congress. The "pork barrel," the southern members call it, a fact, however, which does not prevent their dipping as deeply into its recesses as do the members from the north. The stress for juicy slices of the contents of the federal treasury will be great and with a presidential election coming on and the feeling life in the house that it is necessary to keep everyone in a good humor as possible it will be difficult for the few self-constituted watch-dogs of the country's cashbox to prevent it from being badly depleted before adjournment comes.

Public Building Bills. There will be a public building bill. This is always essential if the pork barrel is to be genuinely attacked and a general distribution made of the meat thereof. The indications are that this bill will carry a liberal sum and will provide for new buildings and additions in a large number of congressional districts. Representative Barthold of St. Louis, chairman of the house public buildings committee, said lately that he intended to do all possible to get a public buildings measure through. "The treasury is in good condition," said Mr. Barthold, "and the need for public buildings the country over is great. There is no reason why liberal provision for public buildings

Verdict for Dr. Pierce

AGAINST THE Ladies' Home Journal.

Sending truth after a lie. It is an old maxim that "a lie will travel seven leagues while truth is getting its boots on," and no doubt hundreds of thousands of good people read the unwarranted and malicious attack upon Dr. R. V. Pierce and his "Favorite Prescription" published in the May (1904) number of the Ladies' Home Journal, with its great black display headings, who never saw the humble, groveling retraction, with its inconspicuous heading, published two months later. It was boldy charged in the slanderous and libelous article that Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, for the cure of woman's weaknesses and ailments, contained alcohol and other harmful ingredients. Dr. Pierce promptly brought suit against the publishers of the Ladies' Home Journal, for $300,000.00 damages.

Dr. Pierce alleged that Mr. Bok, the editor, maliciously published the article containing such false and defamatory matter with the intent of injuring his business, further, that no alcohol, or other injurious, or habit-forming, drugs are, or ever were, contained in his "Favorite Prescription"; that said medicine is made from native medicinal roots and contains no harmful ingredients whatsoever; and that Mr. Bok's malicious statements were wholly and absolutely false.

The retraction printed by said Journal, they were forced to acknowledge that they had obtained analyses of "Favorite Prescription" from eminent chemists, all of whom certified that it did not contain alcohol or any of the alleged harmful drugs.

The facts were also proven in the trial of the action in the Supreme Court. But the business of Dr. Pierce was greatly injured by the publication of the libelous article with its great display headings, while hundreds of thousands who read the wickedly defamatory article never saw the humble groveling retraction, set in small type and made as inconspicuous as possible. The matter was, however, brought before a jury in the Supreme Court of New York State which promptly rendered a verdict in the Doctor's favor. Thus his traitors came to grief and their base slanders were refuted.

Hurrah, hurrah, hurrah, one for each score.

The Champs have returned to their own, defeating Freeport yesterday in graceful, hard hitting style, during a fall of rain, in which Pitcher Scott was driven from the rubber by a total of four safe binges,
one for an extra base, and a wild pitch. The score was 4 to 1, the Canners sneaking one run across the register on Hastings' superb
pitching.

That same hoodoo luck was with Freeport until the sixth inning. Their lone score was made on a fluke hit,
which Cahill struck at with his
gloved hand, but failed to nail.
The few inches, which Cahill failed to grow, might have been enough to allow Freeport to enter away with a second game, but the same Cahill had decreed not. His three hits in three times up, had a savor effect on the score, while "Red" Moore was out for blood and then Hastings was slightly angry. Even Cer-mack rebelled at the way he had been treated, made a hit, and brought home the first run.

Scott Drawn Out.
And the way the fans yelled.
Scott, some call him "Tacks" Scott,
because he is so sharp—in retorts not pitching—was driven from the box, partly by the taunts of the fans.
They yelled and yelled, and recalled
some of those early state league days, when Scott would sputter and retire from the slab. The sixth inning gave ample chance for the howling, and Manager Schoenhoven chased his once star pitcher to the back woods, and then Scotty fitted back to the city, away from the noise and din.

The rain was the cause of the downfall, of the name-sake of St.
Walter. The ball became slippery,
and as Scotty does not throw the "spit," it failed to aid him. He couldn't control his curves, and what did come over the plate, didn't for the batsmen hammered everything.

When the fog had lifted, the Champs had four, a lead of three over Freeport, and enough to win, with Hastings growing meaner every minute.

It was blif, bang and bling for Freeport in the first, and second, a double play cutting off the fun in the latter inning. Barlow was safe on Du Chien's bad heave to first.
Stark hit to Hastings, and away went the ball, Becker to Tracey for a fast double. In the next inning Freeport had a chance to score. Schoen-hoven received a ticket to first, and was sacrificed to second by Devlin,
while Scott, same one, struck out.
Ives lifted one to Bond. Meanwhile the Champs had been struggling along, going out in order, and not catching a glimpse of first, although Cahill made a hit in the first with two down, and was caught trying to steal. In the fourth he repeated the trick.

Freeport Registers.

In the fourth Ireland was hit in the pants, but was out on an attempted steal. The score was made in the next inning. Barlow hit a high fly to left center. Cahill sprinted for it, but only touched the horsehide with the tip of his glove,
and Barlow reached second. Stark
made a hit, attempting a sacrifice
bunt, which no one handled. Hastings and Tracey became confused on the wiggler, and allowed it to get away. Starke stole second, because it was offered to him. Schoenhoven followed with a clean hit to center field. Barlow scored, and Starke was nailed at the plate by Cahill, while trying to score. Schoenhoven went to second on the throw in.
He was caught trying to steal third,
while Devlin popped to Cahill.

Here comes the sweet, sweet story.
First comes the sad fifth. Moore began with a hit, and advanced a peg
on a suicide by Hastings. Becker popped to Barlow, and Killian struck out.

La Crosse Scores.

But now comes the fun. It was raining, and the ball was wet. Sawdust had been sprinkled around.
Cermack swatted safely. Du Chien skied to Ireland, but Bond received a pass, which showed Cermack toward home. Scott sandwiched in a wild pitch, and the runners moved again. Cahill ripped off his third hit,
and the two runners scored. "Dad-
da" stole second, but Tracey went out.
Schoenhoven to Barlow. Moore
tackled a hit, and Cahill scored.
"Red" stole second, and Hastings connected for two bags, sending Moore across. Becker went out, second to first.

Here is some more honey, a tale of the seventh, when Freeport was outwitted with three on the sacks.
Shaughnessy was hit in the waist,
and Barlow was given a pass. Starke struck out. Bond dropped Hastings throw of Schoenhoven's roller, to retire Shaughnessy at third, and the fans groaned again, game lost after being won. Devlin popped a nice one to Bond, and was out. Then Scotty trode to the plate. He was mad, through and through. His red shirt also angered him. He was preparing to bat, when Manager Schoen-hoven imparted the information that Scotty was no longer needed yesterday afternoon, and might retire.
Scotty slammed the bat on the ground, the bat wasn't to blame, and Disch took his place. He struck out nimbly, and the fans tee-heed.

Freeport started the eighth by Ives making a hit. He was out on an attempted steal. Ireland struck out, and Fiske was safe while Ives was forced at second. Shaughnessy scratched a single between second and first, but Stark finished the inning by hitting to Du Chien, and being retired at first. The ninth was a repetition, Stark going out, Du Chien to Tracey, and Schoenhoven and Devlin punting the air. More tomorrow.

VICTORY OVER THE
CANNERS CHEERING

PENNANT IS NOT YET OUT OF REACH

HOPE TO TAKE REMAINDER

If Hawley's Braves Can Wallop Freeport and If the Leaders Lose Six
We Have a Chance

The Champs are again on the road to glory and the pennant once more looms up faintly in the distance.
They still have 17 games to play.
In order to get at least a glimpse of the pennant they will have to win about 14 out of that number. The La Crosse club is 6 games behind Freeport, and in order to be on an even footing they will have to win
six and Freeport will have to lose six. The Freeport team has more games to play than the "Champs,"
however, and Freeport can very easily take a drop before they get to the end of their schedule, so the third pennant is not gone yet.

There was a good attendance yesterday in consideration of the weather.

The double header this afternoon
began at two o'clock.

The pitchers will be Warhop and Disch, and Hawley and Flynn.

Jones' arm is getting along very nicely. Dr. Egan told him that there was nothing wrong except that he had caught a little cold, and that if it was bathed in hot water and rubbed, it would be in good condition
again in a few days.

Battles, who had an abscess lanc-
ed a few days ago, will be able to pitch tomorrow.

"It will be nice," said President Elliott this morning, "if we can win
the remainder of the games with Freeport."

The Champs are again happy after the results of yesterday's game
and will now "play the real article"
along the line of the 11 inning game,
with the exception that the scores
will be on their side.

EAU CLAIRE, Wis., Sept. 7.—In a game in which the Smiths played a prominent part Eau Claire won yester-

in on two errors, a hit batsman and

BADGER AUTOMOBILES
WORTH SIX MILLIONS

MADISON, Wis., Sept. 7.—(Special.)—According to the report on owners of motor vehicles just issued by the state department 3,852 licenses have been granted and about 300 transfers have been recorded.

The state charges $1 for a license and when the machine is sold to another the old number goes with the vehicle, which must be registered at a fee of 50 cents under the new owner's name.

When licenses are asked of the department a complete description of the machine to be operated must be filed before a number is issued. In this state the price of motor vehicles used ranges in value from $800 to possibly $4,000 in some instances. Men familiar with the auto business believe $1,500, however, is a fair average for the value of the machines used in the state. Upon this basis the automobiles of the state are worth $5,778,000.

One Auto to 556 People.
Taking the recent census of 1905
as a criterion one person out of every 556 owns an automobile in the state. This is the general average for the state at large, but taking the cities the proportion to population is very much smaller.

WHERE THE LAW WENT WRONG

Our system of criminal procedure is freely criticized because of the safeguards thrown about the accused, and it is indeed probable that these precautions favorable to alleged criminals are responsible for the miscarriage of justice in scores of cases in which guilty people escape the consequences of their wrongs for every single case in which an innocent person suffers.

When some palpably guilty person escapes just punishment public resentment makes the legal system its target. The idea that, "It is better that a hundred guilty men escape than that one innocent person be convicted," doesn't sound convincing. A crime has been done, the perpetrator is known with moral certainty, yet he gets away unscathed because legal technicality protected him.

But when there comes a case like that of Wilhelmina Baehr, the Wisconsin woman just liberated from prison where she has been incarcerated during 16 long years, for a crime of which it is now known she was not guilty, a revulsion of feeling follows. It is indeed a sad, a shocking affair, and one that need not have occurred had the accused been brought to trial. It was a case of the "railroading" of one whose ignorance was such as to place her at the mercy of ambitious officers and a too thrifty county treasury.

THE WINE WHEN IT IS RED.

Down in Georgia there is a new prohibition law, and so drastic is its workings that the great breweries of the state have been obliged to pack up their kits and "skiddoo" beyond the unfriendly borders.

And now comes a new wall. It is from the churches. The state attorney general has made public an opinion to the effect that the law makes the administering of the sacrament with wine a criminal offense. Loud are the protests that have been occasioned and from the intensity of the feeling engendered it would seem that without wine there can be, in the Georgia view, no holy communion.

One doubts that it is so serious. It even seems probable that the Omnipotent may smile with favor on a sacrament from which the red wine is eliminated, for to sacrifice some of the formality of the sacred ceremony in so good a cause should be a pleasure to the pious.

However, that anyone would make complaint against a purely formal

MEN OF NOTE

Joseph F. Johnston

Hon. Joseph Forney Johnston recently sent to the United States senate from Alabama was born in 1843 in Lincoln county, North Carolina. He was at school at the outbreak of the Civil war and at once threw himself into the ranks of the Confederate army as a private, serving from 1861 until 1865 and rising from private to captain. He was wounded four times. He began the practice of law in Selma, Ala., where he built up a lucrative practice which he held until 1884 when he became president of the Alabama National bank. He retained this position for a decade and shortly afterwards he was chosen as governor of his state serving from 1869 until 1900. His home is in Birmingham, Ala.

practice of a Christian church is absurd, and as the rite is one from which no harm can come, it cannot be presumed that the legislators intended to reach so far. The great state of Georgia might be in better business than enforcing technical annoyances upon the churches, and while it is entirely probable that the displeasure of Heaven would not be incurred were cold tea substituted, civilization will not be shocked if, in this case, the law fails to demand its pound of flesh.

HAYWOOD AND BORAH.

What a sensation it will be for William D. Haywood to pause over his coffee and rolls to read in the morning paper all about the progress of the trial of one Senator Borah, charged by the United States government with stealing land.

Haywood, accused of complicity in the Steunenberg murder, day after day faced his chief inquisitor, Senator Borah, of Idaho. President Roosevelt said he was an "undesirable citizen," but a fair jury, after hearing all the evidence, said he was innocent. Now, it appears, the chief counsel for the state—or rather for his enemies—has become the "undesirable citizen."

And it is possible that the jury in the case of the United States ex rel William E. Borah may not return a verdict of "not guilty." In which case William D. Haywood may be expected to smile a smile of deep delight.

OF HUMAN INTEREST

We probably cannot begin too young to instill a love of good reading into our children. There are so many different ways of instilling knowledge into the minds of little ones that it is sometimes advisable to find out the best way. It always appeals to me that the best way to influence a child for good is in absolute truthfulness.

Now in the case of "fairy stories" especially, I believe in them thoroughly and as some noted person said once, "I believe children should just feed on them," but should fairy stories be given to the children as absolute truth? I think not.

Different children possess such different natures. To some it is impossible to tell anything that cannot be satisfactorily explained; others fairly live and thrive on "make-believe."

As regards the telling of Bible stories they can be made more than delightful and should largely form a solid foundation during early years. The stories that have been running in "The Ladies Home Journal," by George R. Hodges, D. D., are among the best in this line I have ever seen.

They are mostly Old Testament stories and told in such an interesting manner that the child's attention is immediately chained.

Some people seem to find it hard to make Bible stories interesting and convincing, but as a friend said to me the other day: "There is no conflict between science and truth when properly presented," and I thought that was such a good thought for us older ones as well as for the children.

Among the secular books for little folks the "Little book of Bible Verse," by Eugene Field, will be found immensely entertaining, and that delightful little tale, "The Bird's Christmas Carol," by Kate D. Wiggin is justly beloved by every juvenile. There is probably no better way to lay a strong foundation of a good character, than by the fostering of a love of good reading. It will repay us every time.

5769 Jumper Corset Cover,
34 to 44 bust.

JUMPER CORSET COVER 5769

To be slipped on over the head. The corset cover that is without any opening is a satisfactory one for wear beneath thin blouses and here is a model that is eminently simple as well as attractive. It is designed to be drawn on over the head in jumper style and the fulness at the neck and the waist are regulated by means of heading threaded with ribbon. As a consequence there are no buttons and button-holes to mar the design of the blouse worn over it. In this instance embroidered Swiss muslin is trimmed with Valenciennes lace, but lawn, batiste, Paris muslin, all the materials that are used for corset covers are correct for this one. Again, if an elaborate effect is desired, it can be made of some pretty lawn with bands of insertion arranged in any way that may be liked.

The corset cover is made simply lawn with bands of insertion arched under arm seams and the heading is arranged over the neck and the arms-edge edges and also over the waist line. The quantity of material required for medium size is 1 1/4 yards 36 inches wide with 3/4 yards of heading and 2 1/2 yards of edging.

The pattern 5769 is cut in sizes for 34, 38, 40, 42 and 44 inch bust measure and will be mailed to any address by the Fashion Department of this paper on receipt of ten cents. (If in haste send an additional two cent stamp for letter postage which incurs more prompt delivery.)

NO BLENDING OF ORIENT AND OCCIDENT.

(New York Mail.)

There is to be no synthesis between East and West. The human race is not ready for that yet, if it ever will be. Much of the world's recent political history has proceeded on the theory that such a synthesis was near at hand. One composite civilization was to be produced by the blending of Orient and Occident. While it was not assumed that there was to be also one composite race, it was not definitely and clearly denied. That problem was remanded to the future or blinked altogether. Meanwhile the western world went on with feverish haste in its task of bringing itself in physical contact with the East. It penetrated India and imposed the "pax Britannica" on its warring races. It woke up Japan very thoroughly. It sought to wake up China. It cut the Suez canal, built the trans-Siberian railroad and established steamer routes by which, sailing either east or west, the Orient was brought to its doors. The east and the west are now face to face, and each is discovering that it is not yet ready to throw itself into the other's arms. Each has its own life to live, and is still minded to live it in its own way. Their claims and counter-claims may be disposed of by saying that they just about offset each other.

SPOTLIGHTS

The Choir Singer.

Endorsed by press and public is the general verdict by all who have seen the performance of "The Choir Singer." In the second act a beautiful effect is produced through the ingenious arrangement of the lights, whereby both the exterior of the picturesque rural church is displayed and at the same time the interior disclosing the congregation seated in the pews, the clergyman and organist in their proper places and "Alice Leighton" standing at the choir rail singing for the last time before her forced departure for New York, where she takes up the struggle for fame and fortune as a public singer.

From a scenic standpoint, probably the most effective scene in "The Choir Singer" is that in which the stage of a New York roof garden is reproduced in the minutest detail; lighted by myriads of electric bulbs. The scene impresses one as being transplanted from some beautiful tropical country, where wavy palms and trailing vines flourish in abundance. It is here that the heroine makes her first appearance as a public singer, and on her success or failure depends the saving of her old home in Virginia.

Manager Gage announces on Sunday, Sept. 7, matinee and night, "The Choir Singer" will be the attraction at the La Crosse theater.

"Moonshiners."

Following is a true account of the experiences of a certain Chicago official while enjoying his only vacation. David M. Hyland is the official's name and for many years he filled the office of chief operator in the fire alarm telegraph in that city. In all those years Mr. Hyland took only one vacation. That was eight years ago, when he went to New York to buy horses. He had such an experience with moonshiners who mistook him and his party for revenue officers that he never cared to leave Chicago again.

Captured by Moonshiners.

When Mr. Hyland went into Kentucky to buy horses, according to one of his friends in the fire alarm office, he learned of a string of thoroughbreds in the mountains. He started over the mountains, but hadn't gone far when he and his party were captured by moonshiners and kept for several days in a cave with little or nothing to eat.

The moonshiners finally accepted the explanation of the Illinois men that they had gone into that wild region to buy horses, and released them, but they were allowed to proceed to their destination only under escort of two men, one of whom remained constantly with them. The party was allowed to look at the horses, but not to take them away. Arrangements were made to deliver them at a town by the mountaineers, and the horses were there at the appointed time.

Often when anyone would drop in to the fire alarm office Mr. Hyland would tell the story of the mountain trip and how they got their whiskey by leaving a couple of jugs, with a silver dollar under each of them, about 100 yards out of camp. After a time they would go back and find the jugs filled.

A very interesting story has been written dealing with these peculiar people entitled "The Moonshiner's Daughter," which with a carload of special scenery comes to the La Crosse theater Monday, Sept. 9.

SOUVENIR POSTAL CARDS GOOD TEACHERS.

(New York Sun.)

The picture or souvenir postal card is probably doing more to make the world know to the untraveled than all the geographies and gazetteers. There is scarcely a village anywhere in the domain of the postal union that has not had its picture taken for a postal card impression in black or white or in colors, and thus its humble fame has been carried over seas and introduced to the four corners of the Union.

THE SQUAW MAN

BY

JULIE OPP FAVERSHAM

(Copyrighted by Harper & Bros.)

Bud sat on himself near Clarke and Bill; Tabywana remained standing near them, eagerly trying to grasp all that was being said. Bud was not averse to taking Bill into his confidence. He felt that with Clarke as a witness to Bill's statement he had gained the essential point his case needed.

"You fellows have guyed me for years about Cash Hawkins' death, ain't you? Now it's my turn."

So Bud was going to try to make a sensational arrest through Bill, and thus win the county over to him and secure another election to the office of sheriff! Should he call Jim at once, Bill wondered. He determined to wait and see if Bud meant to declare his intentions.

"Ancient history that, Bud," he said. "Forgotten long ago."

"Put that answer," "Not by his friends and relatives about Jansen."

"Oh, they're still looking for somebody to scalp, eh? Better let sleeping dogs lie, Bud." Perhaps he could reason the Sheriff out of this scheme; perhaps convince him that it was not a profitable move on his part and that he would in such case have the other party against him if he ever attempted to use these unfair means.

His thoughts were interrupted by Bud, who said, with a knowing look at Clarke, "You'll have to hand that gun over to me, Bill."

"Will I?"

Bud rose, and with a certain amount of assumed dignity said, "I demand it in my official capacity." As he moved towards Bill he felt Tabywana creeping behind him. Irritated, he turned and faced the Indian as he said, "Say, we ain't got to take Indians into our confidence, have we?"

Bill, who saw that he might accomplish more if left alone with Bud, said, kindly: "Tabywana, get Back up, will you? I want him."

Tabywana knew that he was dismissed, but he trusted Bill, so he only muttered a warning as he started to do his bidding.

"All right, I can take care of myself, Chief."

Then the Indian left him.

"Come on, Bud, I call you. You got to show me your hand."

"Well, if I want an election it's up to me to make good with Cash's outfit, ain't it?"

"So you're due for a grand stand play, eh?" was Bill's comment. The way events were shaping themselves worried him. These rough-shod political aspirations often led men like Hardy to play to the gallery in order to win a high-handed election.

Bud went on, sure that Bill would see the reason of his adventure. "I have always had the bullet that killed Cash, and that's been the only clue I've ever had."

Dryly Bill interrupted. "It hasn't led you very far, Bud."

But Bud did not notice Bill's remark. Impressively he said: "It was a thirty-two. Now no man in this country ever carried a toy like that. That's a woman's weapon."

Then slowly pointing to the revolver in Bill's hand, he said, "That gun of Nat-u-ritch's is a thirty-two."

If this was all the evidence that Bud had, the case was not so serious after all, so much relieved, Bill said, lightly: "Bud, you're a joke. Because Nat-u-ritch happens to own a thirty-two—"

Bud maliciously interposed: "Don't be in such a hurry. The last time I was over to Maverick I happens to ask Nick, the barkeeper, for a light, and he lets me help myself from a squaw's beaded match-safe."

Bud cautiously drew a tiny blue and green embroidered bag from his pocket. "Hello," says I. "Where did you get that?" "Oh," says he, "I've had that for years—ever since the day that Cash Hawkins was killed. Found it in front of the side door down there." And I bought it of him then and there—Bud looked straight into Bill's eyes as he finished—"cause I recognized it as one I had tried to buy of Nat-u-ritch."

But even this statement apparently didn't startle Bill, who met Bud's glance squarely as he said, "And so you jump at the conclusion that—"

"Nat-u-ritch killed Cash Hawkins!" Bud took him up. "There ain't a doubt about it. You see that thirty-two is minus just the shot which she done it with."

Bill paled a little. So Bud had noticed the missing bullet. He knew that since her marriage Nat-u-ritch had never carried the revolver. It had been put away on a shelf to be out of the child's way.

Bud reached his hand towards Bill. "I've shown you my hand fair and square—ma, to man—now I'll thank you for that gun."

But Bill, who caught sight of Jim coming through the corral, said, "That's up to Mr. Carston, and here he is."

Bud turned sharply. He would have preferred to meet Jim some other time, but it was too late to retreat now.

Bill went to Jim. "Hello," he said. He decided to blurt out the whole affair to Jim at once. He knew then that the squaw would be safe; the boss would see to that.

"Mr. Carston," he began, "our amusin' little friend over there is a-contemplatin' of arrestin' Nat-u-ritch for the killin' of Cash Hawkins."

"Oh no, you must be joking,"

Jim said. Bud, too, was out to

The Paper on My Nursery Wall

The paper on my nursery wall
Shows meadows bright and green;
A narrow, winding road runs on
The little hills between.
There, crook in hand, roams and Bo-peep.
Trying so hard to find her sheep;

I wish that she could turn and look
Around the nursery wall.
She'd find them then, as plain as day,
Waiting to hear her call!

It's mean she can not understand
Her sheep are there, so near to hand!

At night I lie in bed and think
How jolly it would be
If she could only turn her head
As easily as me;

Then, while I'm thinking of Bo-peep,
I generally go fast asleep!

"Nothin' much, 'cept I've got a new baby brother."

"You don't mean it! Well, I suppose you're very fond of him?"

"Nope; he's no good—yells all the time."

"Why don't you send him back?"

"Can't; we've used him four days already."

Correctly Argued.

Mrs. McDuff—This paper says that mice are attracted by music, but I don't believe it.

McDuff—Why not?

Mrs. McDuff—Because I never see any mice around when I play the piano.

McDuff—Well, that's no reason for doubting the paper's statement.

POISONED CANDY
FOUND IN MAILSCARAMELS PROVE FATAL AND KILL WOMAN

DAUGHTER HAS GONE INSANE

Chief of Police Baker Solves Mystery of Long Standing—Girl May Have Committed Deed

RACINE, Wis., Sept. 7.—There was a sensation today when it became known that Mrs. F. R. Garlock and H. G. Brehm had been appointed to examine into the mental condition of Miss Adelaide Korizek, aged 28 years, an artist of considerable note, her paintings having attracted attention at the state and county fairs in years gone by. Miss Korizek is a relative of the late Lieut. Gov. Carl Jones, later minister to Prague.

After finishing the examination the physicians reported that she was insane and recommended that she be committed to an institution for treatment. Less than six months ago the mother of Miss Korizek died. They were inseparable before the mother passed away and her death in all probability affected the daughter's mind. The report states that she showed feelings against others and that she sent poisoned candy through the mails. It was the candy incident that brought about the examination.

Not long after the death of Mrs. Korizek the daughter was heard to remark that there would be other funerals in the neighborhood. A Mrs. Morgan received boxes containing caramels and marked sample candy. Mrs. Kemp and her daughter ate the candy and became deathly ill and only the prompt arrival and assistance of friends saved their lives.

Mrs. Morgan did not eat the candy she received and when she learned of the experience of Mrs. Kemp and daughter, she took her candy to Mayor J. Horlick, who had a leading chemist make an examination and the result was that sufficient arsenic was discovered in the candy to kill a person.

The mayor then turned the case over to Chief of Police Henry C. Baker, who made a thorough investigation and concluded from remarks made by Miss Korizek, that she might in her mental condition, have sent the candy.

BAR TO SPOONING

NO KISSING IN PUBLIC PARKSFlirting on Doorsteps Also is Prohibited

EAU CLAIRE, Wis., Sept. 7.—Kissing and spooning within the boundary lines of this municipality are now under official ban. The subject was alluded to at the meeting of the council last evening and a number of city fathers are now busily engaged in framing up an ordinance on the subject that will cover the various points most annoying to the city's welfare. The whole affair arises from the promiscuous spooning and courting that is carried on in the shadows of some of the public buildings and in the parks. The aldermen believe that the steps of school houses, churches and the courthouse were not made to sit on and they ask the fond lovers to seek other spots for their evening tete-a-tetes.

It is said that some of the smacks and tebees, which naturally result from these spoon conventions, have been so loud as to irritate and frighten persons living a block away from where these osculatory explosions took place. If the ordinance passes spooners will have to go outside the city limits and a kissing officer may be added to the police force to see that they keep outside the proper bounds.

Just where to draw the line in classifying kisses is what is adding the heads of some of the town fathers at present.

GASOLINE BLOWS
UP; WOMAN DIES

WHITEWATER, Wis., Sept. 7.—A gasoline explosion resulted in the death of Miss Mary Robbins. She was an old resident who for years has lived alone in her little home and earned her own living by washing and cooking for others, and was washing at the time of the accident. The explosion set her clothes on fire instantly and they were burned and portions of her body were literally baked. The woman was discovered standing in the door by a little boy, who gave the alarm. A neighbor drenched the quivering body with a pail of water and called a doctor and other neighbors. The doctor pronounced her injuries fatal, but did what he could to alleviate the pain. The woman did not make an outcry from first to last.

BIG WEDDING CELEBRATION

Widow-Bride Is 43, and Daughter Is 16—Youngster Takes Man of 27
Years for Better Half

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Sept. 7.—An elopement ending in the double wedding of Mrs. Anna Swan, aged 43, and her daughter, Miss Viola Swan, aged 16, to Richard Starke, aged 31, and Fred Appermann, aged 27, respectively, has caused a sensation in the northwest part of Milwaukee, where they live.

Ten suitors, neighbors say, had sought the widow's hand in marriage. She chose her present husband because he was "a good fellow." They have known each other for ten years. She had been a widow a little more than a year.

The junior bride was almost as popular as her mother—had six sweethearts. She makes light of the disparity in the ages of herself and her husband.

Mammoth Wedding Celebration.

An attempt to mend the fourteen broken hearts will be made at a wedding celebration now being planned. The jollification will be a big affair, too, for the senior bride is a member of ten thriving German societies, and in most of them she has held office. She says she has more than 1,600 sisters and brothers, all of whom will be invited.

The double wedding took place in Chicago on Thursday. The mother and daughter went away with their sweethearts to be married secretly, the twice-married woman explains, to avoid the notoriety of a wedding at home incident to her prominence in the lodges to which she belongs.

The Neighbors Were Suspicious.

Mr. and Mrs. Starke and Mr. and Mrs. Appermann returned to Milwaukee immediately after their marriage. Mrs. Swan-Starke says they came back at once so their friends wouldn't know they had been away. But their friends missed her from the saloon for the first time in many months. They suspected something by her mere absence, and there was a crowd in the place to greet the two bridal couples on their arrival.

The senior bridegroom is a cooper. The man who married the daughter of the cooper's wife is a gardener employed by Currie Bros., seedsmen and florists. Mr. and Mrs. Starke were about their place of business as usual yesterday and Mrs. Appermann, too, was there, but her husband was at work, having been able to get only one day off on which to be married.

WATERLOO SUFFERS
$40,000 BLAZE

WATERLOO, Wis., Sept. 7.—The week of celebration here was followed by a fire which started in the Columbia hotel after most of the guests had retired. For a time it seemed that the entire business section of the town would be destroyed, but the danger was finally averted by the local department. A call for the Watertown department was sent, but after the help was ready to start, word was sent that assistance would not be necessary. The loss is from $30,000 to $40,000.

KENOSHA, Wis.—The Rev. Edgar T. Farrill, pastor of the First Congregational church and his wife were the guests of honor at a reception in honor of their silver wedding. At the close of the program Mr. and Mrs. Farrill were presented with a market basket filled with silver dollars, the gift of the members of the congregation. It required more than 200 silver dollars to fill the basket.

RACINE, Wis.—One of the best barbers in the city of Duluth, Minn., so he says, wants one of the handsome widows or old maids of Racine for a wife. He has written to Mayor Horlick, saying that he had heard of the unusual beauty of the Racine widows and old maids. He describes himself as a widower, of good habits, that he neither drinks, chews, smokes, nor swears, American born, German descent. He has some children, and if the bride he expects to get likes them they will be kept, if not all will go except one. The lady must not be over 35 years old and a blond, weight 125 pounds. PROCRASTINATION AND POOR
JUDGEMENT

Are more often responsible for the misery of the person in ill-health than anything else. That a "stitch in time saves nine" we all know to be true, but the average person in need of good medical treatment cheerfully jeopardizes the future, and readily waits until some more convenient time to consult a physician, or worse still, accepts the misleading statements, together with the cure-all, advertised for the relief of any and all ailments.

The result is that what in the beginning is a trouble easily overcome by the right treatment, eventually becomes a stubborn case of some disease, which, in the chronic stage, weakens and debilitates the whole system, destroying the forces of the body gradually, until life is a burden to the sufferer, his working capacity is less, and the possibility of permanent relief is remote.

Therefore, the person afflicted with any ailment, no matter how slight, cannot afford to risk drifting into the morbid condition brought on by disease, but should consult a physician who has demonstrated his ability to successfully battle with disease and come out victorious in the end.

Dr. L. M. Turbin, the Chicago physician who has made regular monthly visits to our city for many years, has been successful in acquiring that ease and promptitude of execution which are due to superior mental training, and has perfected a method of effective treatment which is necessary in rebuilding the body.

His thorough knowledge of the theory and practice of medicine; his years of experience, and the demonstrations of his skill which can be found among our friends and neighbors prove that he is competent, and capable of giving satisfactory treatment to those who seek his advice.

In the Enemy's Camp. A Presbyterian clergyman was praising the late Dr. Henry Martyn Field of Stockbridge, who for forty-four years edited The Evangelist.

"Dr. Field did so much good," he said, "because he went about his work diplomatically, sensibly, reasonably."

"I once heard him declare that reformers failed often because the moment they started a reform they dropped common sense. Common sense was swallowed up in zeal."

"He said that a nerve cure fad-dict once entered a shop and, leading the proprietor to one side, whispered mysteriously:

"Ah, friend, you can do the race untold good if you will take the agency of our anti-tea preparation. It is warranted to cure in a week the most confirmed and nerve-racked tea tippler. Never again—"

"But the dealer laughed and drew away."

"You have made a mistake," he said. "I can't take such an agency, as that. Don't you see that this is a tea shop?"

"Oh, no mistake," said the reformer eagerly. "It's because you run a tea shop that I have sought you out. You come into constant contact with the very people we are trying to reach." — Washington

"Do you know, my dear," said Mrs. Wilkinson. "I was at the Browns' 'At Home' this afternoon, and I met Mrs. Simpkins, whom I hadn't seen for two years, and she knew me at once. She recognized me by my bonnet." The hint was taken.

"Strange," sighs an editor, "that there are men occupying high positions in business and society in this city who do not know how to read."

This remark is suggested by seeing the number of intelligent-looking men unable to decipher the mystic legend, "Please shut the door!"

A schoolmaster who happened to have red hair was giving an objection to his class on a nut. In his endeavor to draw a distinction between a hazel-nut and other nuts he held one up to view, asking: "What kind of a nut is this?" at the same time, without a thought, putting his pencil to his head while waiting for an answer. Suddenly a young fellow who was noted for his witty answers replied: "A ginger-nut, sir!" — London Tit-Bits.

LITTLE BABY CURED OF ECZEMA

Parents Applied to Hospitals and Doctors but Could Get No Relief—Grew Worse Under Doctor's Prescription—Friends Recommended Cuticura—Result

A SPEEDY AND PERMANENT CURE

"We express to you herewith our best thanks for the cure of our baby from eczema. The eczema appeared when the child was three months old. We applied to several doctors and hospitals, each of which gave us something different every time, but nothing brought relief. A physician recommended a salve which we threw into the fire after two days' use as the eczema became worse so that the baby scratched his face. At last, one of our friends recommended to us Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment. A few days afterwards improvement could be noted. Since then we have used nothing but Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment, and now the baby is six months old and is quite cured. All that we used was one cake of Cuticura Soap and two boxes Cuticura Ointment, costing in all $1.25. Even the poorest man can pay that instead of throwing it into the doctor's lap. I myself only make twelve dollars a week as a teamster, but I recommend the Cuticura Remedies strongly to all mothers whose children suffer from such diseases. They are cheap, harmless and good. C. F. Kana and Wife, 343 East 65th Street, New York, March 30, 1906."

FOR SORE HANDS

LINCOLN-DOUGLAS SOCIETY HOLDS FIRST MEETING

QUALIFY FOR SPARTA DEBATE

Championship "Gib-Fest" Will Be Pulled Off Later in Season With that City

The first meeting of the Lincoln-Douglas Debating society of the La Crosse high school took place last evening.

The society has challenged both Sparta and Viroqua to debate and Sparta has already accepted.

After a question has been selected they will enter into a preliminary debate and the judges chosen are to decide as to the ability of the debaters, the winners to enter into the championship debate between La Crosse and Sparta.

Excluding the senior class, all members of the debating society, except one, have returned to school this season and the members are already manifesting much interest.

There were 28 members present last evening.

WHISKY, NOT SUICIDE, AMUNDSON'S FATE

Mrs. D. F. O'Brien, wife of Dr. O'Brien, the well known specialist, does not coincide with the belief that her former husband, Peter Amundson, who died in Minot, N. D., recently, was a suicide.

O'Brien is of the opinion that the key, of which he was a heavy drinker, was responsible for his death.

Amundson's conduct prior to his divorce was not that of a man who would give himself into a suicidal mood over the loss of his family.

While employed at a good salary, Mrs. O'Brien says, he never supported his family or deported himself in a manly way.

Mrs. O'Brien says the statement that he called on her in her new home is an error. He did call, but never saw her, and her only knowledge of his alleged desire to remarry her is based upon the assertion of people to whom he is said to have confided this wish.

Mrs. O'Brien added that the friends of her former husband are not and never were friends of hers, and she does not see the necessity for them "getting busy" with her affairs at this late day.

C. F. HOFFMAN IS LAID TO REST

The funeral of C. F. Hoffman, the pioneer composer and musician of La Crosse, was held this afternoon from the house, 922 state street, at 3 o'clock, Rev. Julius Gamm officiating.

The Odd Fellows, to whom Mr. Hoffman had belonged for a number of years, were in charge of the arrangements and services at the grave.

Interment was made at Oak Grove, a large number of relatives and friends following the remains to their final resting place.

FINISH PLANS SOON

Plans, which are being made by Parkinson and Dockendorf, for the new $25,000 high school at Galesville, will be ready in about two weeks and will then be let for contracts.

The edifice will have a flat roof and will be a brick structure throughout, having three stories.

Plans are nearly complete for the addition to the St. Mary's church at Clark's Mills, Wis., and also for the addition to the St. Michael's church at Viroqua, North Dakota.

Work of installing the fine stone front for George Dunn at Sparta was started last week and is now nearly completed.

The alteration which has been made at the Monroe County Bank at Sparta is also nearly completed and adds much to the appearance of the building.

PICNIC IS POSTPONED

The picnic of the First Congregational church Sunday school, which was to have been held today at Myrick park, was postponed because of the inclement weather. The picnic will be held later.

VAN AUKEN GETS NO WORD FROM MILWAUKEE MAYOR

WILL VISIT THE STATE FAIR

Local Secretary Is Busy in Quest of Additional Features for the Interstate Exposition

C. S. Van Auker, secretary of the Interstate Fair association, has received no answer from the invitation extended to Sherburne Becker, Milwaukee's boy mayor, inviting him to give an address to the farmers on "Good Roads" during the Interstate fair. An answer is expected the first of the week.

Secretary Van Auker may see Mayor Becker in Milwaukee tomorrow or the first of the week. The secretary will leave tonight to view the Wisconsin State fair at Milwaukee, and secure attractions for the local exhibition. He will be accompanied by his assistant.

Last night two good shows, now at Sans Souci park, Chicago, were booked for the local fair. The manager of the Sans Souci attractions made a special trip to La Crosse to see Secretary Van Auker.

EMALL FIRE IS CAUSE OF FLURRY

Considerable excitement prevailed last evening about 10 o'clock when an alarm was rung in from the factory district where a small bonfire at the Torrance foundry had caused someone to ring in an alarm.

A pile of coke which had been smothered, fanned up into a small blaze which was extinguished by the firemen with a few pailfuls of water.

The Torrance foundry is located in a fireproof structure and had the fire not been discovered it would undoubtedly have burned out.

MISPLACED SWITCH CAUSE OF TROUBLE

A switch which had been tampered with in the new yards at Grand Crossing was the cause of a small wreck which might have resulted seriously yesterday afternoon, when two cars of lumber and poles were tipped over.

The accident would no doubt have derailed the entire train if the rate of speed had been greater.

Fortunately no one was injured.

WATCH AND SILVER SUSPECTS ARE SAME

MANSFIELD WILL PROBATED.

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—The will of Richard Mansfield was filed for probate by Lawyer David Gerber, one of the attorneys for Mrs. Mansfield, who is the executrix and sole legatee.

Mr. Gerber said that Mr. Mansfield's personal estate would amount to more than $100,000 and that he left no real estate. He deeded most of his estate to Mrs. Mansfield as he acquired it.

The will is as follows:

I, Richard Mansfield, of the city, county and state of New York, being of sound mind and memory, do hereby make, publish and declare this my last will and testament, in manner and form as follows, that is to say:

First—I direct the payment of all my just debts and funeral expenses.

Second—I give, devise and bequeath all the property, real or personal, of whatsoever kind the same may be, or wheresoever situated, of which I may be seized and possessed or to which I may be entitled, to my beloved wife, Susan Hageman Mansfield, to have and to hold the same, to her and her heirs and assigns forever.

Third—I nominate and appoint my said wife, Susan Hageman Mansfield, executrix of this, my last will and testament, and I hereby revoke any and all former wills by me made.

The will was executed at Philadelphia on May 21, 1894. The only next of kin of Mr. Mansfield is his son, Gibbs Mansfield, who is under 10 years of age.

TOLAND SCHOOLS TO HAVE RECORD YEAR

OPENING LARGEST IN HISTORY OF THE UNIVERSITY

CAPACITY IS INSUFFICIENT

Manager Leigh Toland Forced to Seek Additional Quarters—Good Jobs Are Cause

Unless Leigh Toland rents additional quarters, some of the incoming students registered for the Wisconsin Business schools will have to sit on the roof.

Mr. Toland has come to a realization of this fact, and is hustling for additional space with suitable light, ventilation and ceiling height, not taking into consideration those who come in late, of whom there are always scores, the full capacity of the university building is inadequate to hold those already assured.

The 1907 opening is the greatest in the history of the schools. The unprecedented success in the placing of graduates in first class positions during the past season has done more, perhaps, than anything else to enhance the attendance. In addition to this, the university building has been gone over and put into an inviting condition, while the staff of teachers has been materially strengthened.

GALESVILLE HAS SMALLPOX SCARE

GALESVILLE, Wis., Sept. 7.—(Special.)—Galesville has a case of smallpox. Guy, the 12-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Ole Sagin, is the victim. The lad was taken ill the first of the week, but little attention was paid to the patient, until yesterday when the case developed into smallpox.

The house is now quarantined and it is hoped the spread of the contagion will be checked.

May Not Open Schools.

The city schools were to begin on next Monday, but owing to the smallpox case it is not yet decided what the action of the board will be.

The local board of health is using all precaution to keep the disease in check, but owing to the fact that this was the week of the fair, and the lad mingled freely, it is said, with his playmates up to Wednesday night, it is not possible to ascertain just to what extent the malady will extend.

GALESVILLE CROP LADEN BARN BURNS

GALESVILLE, Wis., Sept. 7.—(Special.)—Lightning struck the large barn belonging to Johnnie Dicks, a wealthy farmer, residing two miles south of this place, last night at 11 o'clock.

The barn which was built some two years ago at a cost of several thousand dollars and considered to be one of the finest barns in Trempealeau county was entirely destroyed by fire. There was considerable farm machinery besides this year's harvest of hay, something like 100 tons; sixteen grain stacks were all destroyed.

The total loss will reach, it is estimated, the $15,000 mark.

The barn, it is understood, was insured.

MORTIMER MERRILL WEDS IN MILWAUKEE

Mortimer Merrill, a former resident of the North side and a printer by trade, was wedded Wednesday in Milwaukee at the All Saints' cathedral to Miss Rose Schuengel.

After the ceremony they took the train for La Crosse, arriving here Thursday, for a few days' visit with Mr. Merrill's relatives, after which they will return to Milwaukee where the groom is employed as a printer.

SUSPECTS HAD FINE SILVERWARE

Two men who arrived at the Hotel Doering about 9 o'clock yesterday morning registered as F. Roberts and J. Carney, were arrested by the police yesterday afternoon.

They were found to have in their possession a lot of silverware which they had been trying to dispose of at the various retail stores in the city.

CONTRACT LETTING AGAIN POSTPONED

There was nothing done in regard to the letting of the contract for the erection of the new plant of the Vote-Berger company at the meeting of the board of directors held last evening.

One of the directors stated that all of the bids were not in and that until then, and Mr. Gund, another director, returns, nothing definite will be done.

MARRIAGE LICENSE

Casper Zweifel, a town of Shelby farmer, and Miss Ida Weiss, 1544 Park avenue, secured a license to wed today.

Miss Alice Cronor, daughter of County Coroner Edward Cronon, has left for Lincoln, Neb., where she has accepted a position in a millinery establishment.

NORIVERAND HARBOR

Demand Will Be Great.

Following the usual course of things, whenever there is any probability of public building legislation, there will be widespread demand for public building, authorizations and appropriations. The member of the house whose district is not insisting on one or more new public buildings will be fortunate, but lonesome. The last general public buildings measure was passed by the first session of the fifty-ninth congress. It carried authorizations of over $27,500,000. The bills introduced, however, contained provisions for several times that amount. It took a lot of paring and pruning, inducing no little hard feeling, to get the bill cut down to something like reasonable limits. This winter, the pressure will probably be still greater.

Congress has settled down definitely to the policy of having separate postoffice and federal buildings in the larger cities. This policy will be adhered to in any appropriations or authorizations that may be made the coming session. It tends to increase the number of public buildings necessary, but its supporters deem the increased convenience warrants the additional expense.

Bids Scarce.

When congress meets it will be confronted with the fact that the office of the supervising architect has been embarrassed in getting bids for public buildings this year in many cases by the appropriation being lower than the lowest proposals. It is charged this is due to increased cost of materials, labor troubles, the extensive building operations in the country generally and various other causes. Congress will be forced to make additional public building appropriations to meet such emergencies.

In connection with public building matters, there will be strong demand on congress for appropriations for new government buildings in the city of Washington. The expansion of the government's activities is so rapid that the office room needed is far in excess of that in the government buildings proper, that is, the buildings the government has erected. The expenditure of the government for rental of buildings in the District of Columbia is getting larger and larger each year. It is needless to say this is encouraged by landlords of Washington, who find Uncle Sam a most desirable tenant, who pays his bills promptly and keeps his rented quarters in good condition. In the last year, the government departments in Washington have occupied no less than 134 private structures, at a total annual rental of $386,362.76, representing if capitalized at 6 per cent a sum of exactly $6,439,719. There is not much doubt it would be economy if the government erected its own buildings entirely. It is certain it would be a great convenience, since it often happens that the bureaus of a single department are so scattered about that it takes the better part of a day to walk about to all of them. The department of commerce and labor needs a new building and there has long been urged a project to build a new structure for the departments of state, justice and commerce and labor. The interstate commerce commission is badly hampered for room and is in a building now that is notorious for having the slowest elevators in Washington. It is a standing joke that the commission cannot regulate its own car problem, to say nothing of the nation's.

New P. O. for Washington.

The completion of the magnificent new union station in Washington will probably result in a new postoffice building for the city of Washington being erected near it.

When it comes to pork barrel matters, the rivers and harbors bill must not be overlooked. It is likely there will be a strong demand for such a bill this winter, but as one was passed last winter, the speaker will probably insist that nothing be done except to appropriate for continuation of work on projects already authorized. With no river and harbor measure, public buildings will naturally fare better than they would otherwise. The plans of the enthusiasts for a bigger navy, however, are likely to give the public building supporters a good deal of difficulty.

TOO MANY MILLIONAIRES.

PORTLAND, Ore., Sept. 7.—Secretary Taft, in an address here yesterday, said he was firmly convinced that the time had come when the country was tired of the plethora of millionaires and of their influence. He said it had been demonstrated and could further be shown that the business of the nation should be run on the principle of a square deal to every one and special privileges to none, be he rich or poor. That, he said, had been the principle of the present administration, and it would be with the republican administrations to come. He expressed confidence in the ability of the people to rise up and regulate whatever abuses might exist.

MURDERED ON WEDDING NIGHT.

NACODOCHES, Texas, Sept. 7.—D. D. Owens, who was to have been married last night to Miss Maggie Wilkerson, daughter of a farmer near here, disappeared just before the ceremony. A searching party found the body in the woods. He had been shot and a rope placed around his neck. A negro is suspected of the crime.

Heavyweight Kitchen Folks.

"It will do you more good to smell food that is being cooked than it will to eat it after it is cooked," was the astounding statement made by a local restaurant man. "That is the reason why so many professional cooks are heavyweights. You never saw any one who became a chef and stayed at it any length of time but became fleshy. Cooks never eat to any great extent, except to taste the food at times while it is being cooked in order to see if it is done. It is the odor of the food in the kettles that makes them fat. The same will apply in the case of the housewife. Continuous work in the kitchen makes fleshy women and healthy women. Cooking is the healthiest occupation in the world."—Indianapolis Star.

WOMAN SUFFERS FOR HUSBAND'S CRIME

DETAILS OF MRS. BAEHR'S IMPRISONMENT ARE SHOCKING

WAS SLAVE OF A FAMILY

Railroaded on Promise of Protection Through Confession of Crime

She Did Not Commit

MADISON, Wis., Sept. 7.—(Special.)—The sad story of Wilhelmina Baehr, the woman liberated yesterday after 16 years' imprisonment for a crime she probably did not commit, is a shocking one, and points to the necessity of care in the use of "hurry up" methods. A confession under duress, made by a woman scarcely understanding the import of her words, was responsible for the terrible wrong.

That the Baehr woman did not kill Michael Sell became so much a matter of conviction that a petition to the governor was started by W. C. Zachow, a wealthy resident of Shawano county, and signed by nearly every voter in that locality. The case was brought to the attention of the governor in a hearing for pardon.

Woman Was Ignorant.
The defendant came to this country, fresh and ignorant from the old country, about 20 years ago. She met a family in Shawano county by the name of Baehr. The mother of the family had died and Wilhelmina's sisters persuaded the girl to marry their father, Alexander Baehr, convincing her that it was a good chance to get a home for life. Upon marriage she immediately became the abject slave of the whole family.

At that time Baehr's father-in-law, by the first marriage, Michael Sell, was living with them. Baehr no longer liked his former maternal relative and it is now alleged concocted a scheme to have him murdered.

May Have Poisoned Him.
It now appears that if any scheme was laid it was done by Baehr himself, and not his wife, for he subsequently committed suicide after his wife had been sentenced to prison for the murder of Sell.

After the old man was dead, David Winter, chairman of the town of Washington, came and had a talk with Mrs. Baehr and wishing to save expense to the town of holding a post-mortem to determine if the old man died of poisoning, told the woman if she would admit the crime the court would let her go free.

Without legal advice, she was so ignorant that she believed this to be true and went before Judge Meyers, pleaded guilty to poisoning Sell and received a sentence for life.

Winter Asks Her Pardon.
At the time it was believed that the woman had poisoned the man by Paris green. The old man had been ill so long previous it would be difficult to determine the exact cause of his death. Shortly after Baehr's wife had been sent to prison, her husband telling his daughters never to reveal anything, committed suicide.

Mrs. Baehr never realized the term for which she was sentenced for on the way to the prison she told the sheriff she would be back in seven months.

In time the people of the vicinity began to believe the woman was not guilty, and David Winter, the complainant who obtained the confession, was one of the first to petition the governor for her release. All the evidence gathered at the hearing for pardon indicated that in all probability the woman had been imprisoned over 16 years for a crime she never committed and so the governor commuted the sentence.

Peculiarity of Hair.
A woman leading two children stepped into a barber shop with her charges.

"I want their hair trimmed," she said, "but not all the way round. I only want it trimmed off even. It is just the right length on the right side, but too long on the left side. I had their hair trimmed only a little while ago, and here it is noticeably longer on the left side. I don't believe it was trimmed evenly in the first place."

"Oh, yes, it was," the barber assured her. "It grows faster on the left side, that is all. Most people's hair does grow faster on that side, but it is on children's heads that we are most likely to notice it."—New York Press.

Emerson's Pun.
"Now, Emerson, if I buy you a boat, will you promise not to be naughty any more?"

The five-year-old Boston boy adjusted his glasses. "Mother, when you have purchased the boat I shall cease to be naughty. I shall be nautical," he intelligently enunciated in purest English.—Bohemian.

When a girl invites a young man to her home for dinner and he is told that she did the cooking, it's time for him to sit up and take notice.—Montevideo County Herald.

SOME OLD WORLD JOURNEYINGS

Rev. J. K. Fowler of the First Presbyterian church is not disposed to be selfish over the good things gathered in his recent European travels. His congregation granted him a three months' absence abroad and one of them very materially helped toward its enjoyment. And so he feels they ought to share in some measure in the profit of his travels as well as any others who for any reason have special interest in old world scenes. He has therefore planned a series of addresses for the autumn Sunday evenings. The initial one given last Sunday evening took his hearers across the water and gave points about "Old World Toppers." This Sunday as the schools open he gives "Glimpses of School Life in Heidelberg and Oxford."

There may be some variations, but the series is expected to include "Florence and Savonarola," "St. Peter's and the World's Sunday School Convention in Rome," "Pompeii and Its Great Object Lesson," "A Sunday in Paris," "R. J. Campbell in City Temple London and Wesley in City Road Chapel," "Westminster Abbey and St. Paul's, London," "St. Giles and John Knox."

ELEVEN KILLED IN IOWA TRAIN CRASH

EXPRESS IS DERAILED WHILE MAKING UP TIME

LEAVES TRACK AT A SIDING

Then Collides With Freight, Standing on Parallel Track—Shock Is Terrific—Cars Splintered

WATERLOO, Ia., Sept. 7.—Eleven known dead, three of whom have been identified, and seven or more injured is the result of an express train north bound being derailed on the Rock Island railroad at Norris, Ia., and colliding while going at full speed, ten minutes behind schedule time, with a south bound freight train standing on a siding.

The collision occurred shortly before noon yesterday. The dead:

C. B. Cliber, Waterloo, Ia., traveling man.

J. B. Lamphere, Shell Rock, Ia., farmer.

William Smith, West Liberty, Ia. Eight unidentified dead.

The injured:

Dr. Charles J. O'Keefe, Marble Rock, Ia.; right leg crushed and injured internally.

W. H. Myers, Albert Lea, Minn.; arms and legs crushed and internal injuries.

O. H. Martin, West Liberty, Ia.; arm clerk; slightly hurt.

Thomas Evenson, Mora, Minn., farmer; right leg broken and right hand crushed.

J. A. Newell, Waterloo, Ia., Illinois Central conductor; right arm torn off at shoulder and right leg crushed; will probably die.

John Shaw, Waterloo, farmer; injuries slight.

J. H. Douglas, Waterloo; collarbone and right arm broken.

One unknown farmer.

Suffers All in Smoker.

All the dead and injured were in the smoking car, which was immediately behind the baggage and mail cars. The smoking car was completely demolished, there being not one piece of wood left large enough to make a top for an ordinary kitchen table. The dead and injured were strewn about among the wreckage.

The northbound express was ten minutes late at Norris Siding, which is a small station three miles north of Cedar Falls, Ia., and there a southbound freight train was awaiting the express which came thundering along at a terrific speed in an effort to make up time. Just as the engine of the express was about to pass the freight engine the trucks of the express jumped the track and the engine crashed with terrible force into the engine of the freight, wrecking both engines and telescoping the baggage and mail cars and demolishing the smoking car in which a number of men were riding.

Day Coach Passengers Escape.

It was among the occupants of this car that the only injuries and fatalities occurred.

The passengers in the two day coaches following the smoker escaped with only a violent shaking up. Rescuers were immediately to hand to care for the injured and to take the dead from among the wreckage, and great excitement raged about the scene, which was one to make the stoutest hearted men shudder.

BITTER FIGHT OVER NEW SUPERIOR ROAD

MADISON, Wis., Sept. 7.—(Special.)—Halford Erickson, a member of the railroad rate commission, and Engineer W. D. Pence left for Superior last night to view the grounds and take testimony in the matter of granting a certificate of public convenience and necessity to the Wisconsin and Northern Minnesota road to build a line through Superior. A portion of the application of this new road is bitterly contested by the Northern Pacific and the terminal company.

The son proposes to build a line from the Minnesota state line to near the city of Superior. From this terminating point the Wisconsin and Northern proposes to build to the interstate bridge on Connor's Point.

To the construction of both of these roads the other railroads operating in Superior have finally withdrawn all objection, on the agreement that the matter of crossing will be taken up by the commission later, when testimony will be taken and an order given as to what the character of the crossings to be built by the new line shall be. The railroads interested oppose grade crossings and demand either subways or elevated crossings.

The bitter fight, however, centers upon the proposal of the Wisconsin and Northern to build a branch from Connor's point about half a mile to lot 500, where it is proposed to build and operate a grain elevator. J. A. Murphy, representing the terminal company and Louis Hanitch of the Northern Pacific oppose this plan on the ground that it will cross so many tracks as to choke traffic. The opposing companies are determined to make the Wisconsin and Northern accept the service furnished by the terminal company, as the other roads are now doing.

SAN FRANCISCO'S EXAMPLE.

(New York World.)

In Louis Glass, president of the Pacific States Telephone company, San Francisco has convicted its first wealthy bribe-giver.

Mayor Schmitz and Boss Ruef are already in jail. They represent the class of political corruptionists who sell privilege and protection. Glass, who now follows them behind the bars, typifies the class of corporation corruptionists who buy privilege and protection. There is no choice between them. They all belong in the penitentiary together.

Behind Glass a long string of prominent corporation officials and attorneys involved in the telephone and street railroad bribery cases have been awaiting their turn in the prisoners' dock. They are soon to be gratified. The evidence against some of them is strong. The San Francisco supervisors have confessed that they were bribed and how and when, to vote away public franchises.

California has set a good example to the rest of the country in convicting Glass. From San Francisco to New York, and all the way between criminals of his class have gone too long unwhipped of justice.

UP TO TAYLOR TO TESTIFY.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Sept. 7.—Judge Robert L. Stout of the Fourteenth judicial district, in which the Goebel murder was committed seven years ago, declared that he alone is authorized to grant immunity to W. S. Taylor, Kentucky's fugitive ex-governor, if Taylor will return to Kentucky to testify in the Powers case. He said if Taylor would return to testify in the Powers case he would not only see that Taylor was not arrested but that he was safely returned to Indiana.

Lasting Results

NEWBRO'S HERPICIDE.

"I am blessed with an abundance of long hair and I use the utmost care in the preservation of it. I have never found anything that pleases me as much as Newbro's Herpicide. It keeps the scalp clean and sanitary and adds a luxurious appearance to my hair that no other preparation will give. I consider it most delightful to use and I can truly say that I prefer it above all other preparations for the hair. I like your soap also and can recommend both highly to any lady who wishes a good head of hair."

LINKER BROS., BARBERS OF LA CROSSE USE HERPICIDE EXCLUSIVELY IN THEIR SHOP.

"We have used Herpicide in our shop exclusively for some time with most excellent results, and know of a great many cases of dandruff and falling hair that it has cured. Newbro's Herpicide is a thorough scalp prophylactic and we consider that it heads the lists of all hair preparations."

(Signed) LINKER BROS.,
La Crosse, Wis.

While it is not natural for anyone to have extremely long hair, it is possible for every lady to have beautiful hair, for when the scalp is not diseased, the hair will grow naturally and abundantly.

The chief disease of the scalp is dandruff—which is highly contagious—and dandruff is now known to be caused by an invisible vegetable growth called the dandruff germ. Ordinarily, the first signs of scalp infection are dryness, dullness and brittleness of the hair, although the disease sometimes causes excessive oiliness. Following this, the hair loses its lustre, the scalp itches more or less and dandruff appears. Falling hair and baldness represent the last stages of hair destruction.

Newbro's Herpicide—the original remedy that kills the dandruff germ—will cure any stage of this disease, except chronic baldness, which is incurable. Herpicide not only destroys the dandruff germ and stops falling hair, but it is a most exquisite hair dressing, making the hair light and fluffy and giving it a silken gloss. Almost marvelous results sometimes follow the continued use of Herpicide. It stops itching of the scalp almost instantly.

ONE IN THREE

Every Third Person Poisoned by Coffee.

It is difficult to make people believe that coffee is an absolute poison to at least one person out of every three, but people are slowly finding it out, although thousands of them suffer terribly before they discover the fact.

A New York hotel man says: "Each time after drinking coffee I became restless, nervous and excited, so that I was unable to sit five minutes in one place, was also inclined to vomit and suffered from loss of sleep, which got worse and worse."

A lady said that perhaps coffee was the cause of my trouble, and suggested that I try Postum Food Coffee. I laughed at the thought that coffee hurt me, but she insisted so hard that I finally had some Postum made. I have been using it in place of coffee ever since, for I noticed that all my former nervousness and irritation disappeared. I began to sleep perfectly, and the Postum tasted as good or better than the old coffee, so what was the use of sticking to a beverage that was ruining me?

"One day on an excursion up the country I remarked to a young lady friend on her greatly improved appearance. She explained that some time before she had quit using coffee and taken Postum. She had gained a number of pounds and her former palpitation of the heart, humming in the ears, trembling of the hands and legs and other disagreeable feelings had disappeared. She recommended me to quit coffee and take Postum and was very much surprised to find that I had already made the change."

"She said her brother had also received great benefit from leaving off coffee and taking on Postum Food Coffee." "There's a Reason." Read "The Road to Wellville" in place.

Now and in the Middle Ages. Most of us probably rejoice that we did not live in the fifth or the tenth or even in the seventeenth century of the Christian era. When we think of those times we see their dark side and we feel how much we should miss in which we now take pleasure. But can we be sure that the individual man in those past centuries had on the average a worse time than the average man has now? He was in many points less sensitive to suffering than we are, and he may have enjoyed some things more intensely. The literature of the seven centuries that preceded our own is in many ways quite as buoyant in spirit as is ours. It is often thought that the fear of torment in a future life must have brooded like a dark cloud over the minds of past generations, and that the tendency of opinion which has attenuated this fear represents a great brightening in the sky. Lucretius held that the greatest service ever rendered to mankind was that rendered by Epicurus when he dispelled those mists of ancient superstition which had produced human sacrifice. Other mists settled down not so long after the days of Lucretius, and in direct violation of the teaching it professed to respect superstition caused far more bloodshed and suffering after his time than it had ever caused before. Persecution has now vanished and with it the terrors to which superstition appealed. — Hon. James Bryce in Atlantic.

TWO FIRES DO LITTLE DAMAGE

There were two small fires yesterday.

One blaze was discovered in the J. B. Funke Candy company, Front and State streets, building, on the third floor, about 5:30 yesterday morning. Fortunately the fire was discovered before it had gained any headway and extinguished.

Tar Boils Over.

The other fire was at the home of Wenzel Tikel, 929 Redfield street, where some tar which had been boiling upon the oak stove ran over and set the floor on fire and also badly soiled the room. The fire was extinguished before great damage was done. The alarm was rung in about 1 o'clock.

A GOOD CROP OF WILD BLACKBERRIES

All reports say that there never was such a crop of wild blackberries as there is this year, and many city pickers are making excursions to the woods to gather berries for family use. There would be more such if the weather was better. If they were a shipping commodity the crop would be a source of considerable revenue to the people of this vicinity. But they do not stand shipment very well, and would not stand much show in the market by the side of tame berries, though the flavor is just as good. Tame blackberries are now bringing two dollars per case to local growers.

ARREST 2 SUSPECTS

George Allen and George Shepard are the names given the police yesterday by two suspicious looking characters, who had been roaming around the city for several hours.

It is said that they are wanted for stealing some watches and the police expect to hear from some one to that effect in a few days.

The men were trying to dispose of some watches which were found on their persons when arrested.

"John," said his wife, "now you needn't tell me you mailed the letter I gave you this morning."

"Of course I did. What makes you think I didn't?"

"I didn't give you any."—Exchange.

TO RULE MOROCCO WITH AN IRON HAND

PARIS, Sept. 7.—A most important change has occurred in the political aspect of the Moroccan question a change which may have a far-reaching effect on the future of Morocco and the relations of the powers thereto. France and Spain have the intention to occupy the literal ports of Morocco with their own forces and establish police organizations. This contemplated action results from the official announcement of the Moroccan government, through the war minister, El Gabbas, that it is unable to guarantee the safety of the European instructors of the international police force, which under the terms of the Algeiras convention was to be composed of Moors.

The dilemma of France and Spain who by the terms of the Algeiras convention are compelled to organize the international police, was submitted to the signatory powers, including the United States, and they all agreed that the situation demanded that France and Spain police Morocco themselves.

Although it is distinctly stipulated that such occupation is merely provisional, or until it is safe to recruit the police from among the Moors there is a strong feeling that the absolute anarchy reigning in Morocco means that this occupation of the ports may be long drawn out, perhaps lasting indefinitely.

Military Control Probable.

Moreover, the occupation of the ports may cause serious complications, resulting from the continued hostility of the fanatical Moors, a possibility which may compel an enlargement of the police action and culminate in a virtual military control of the Moroccan empire. This, however, will depend on the attitude of the Moors.

France planned to occupy Mazagan, Mogador, Safi, and Rabat, and Spain is to occupy El Araish and Tetuan. France and Spain together will occupy Casablanca and Tangier.

STRIKE SETTLEMENT NEAR, IT IS SAID

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—The conference of United States Commissioner Neill and President Small of the telegraphers, was continued this morning at the Fifth Avenue hotel, and rumors that a settlement of the strike is near at hand are persistent. W. W. Beattie, international vice president of the Commercial Telegraphers' union, says that there is "every reason to hope" for an early ending of the struggle.

During the conference Commissioner Neill and President Small had communication over the long distance telephone with President Samuel Gompers of the American Federation of Labor at Washington. The strikers declared that if peace comes it will be on terms honorable to the key men.

Important developments in the strike may be expected to result on next Tuesday, when the board of directors of the Western Union Telegraph company meets to hold its regular quarterly meeting in New York.

ROOSEVELT IN BOAR HUNT WITH JAVELINS

HOUSTON, Tex., Sept. 7.—Reports reached here from San Antonio that a wild boar hunt with javelins for weapons instead of rifles is being planned for President Roosevelt.

An experimental hunt with javelins will shortly be made in the district south of San Antonio. Several of President Roosevelt's acquaintances are authority for the statement that if the sport proves good the president has promised to join in a hunt during his coming southern and western tour.

POSTAL SUES UNION

CHICAGO, Sept. 7.—The Postal Telegraph company today began suit against the Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America on the ground that the latter had refused to pay for transmission of messages.

A Peddler of Chestnuts.

One summer a well known senator went back to his birthplace and of course made a speech to the friends of his childhood.

"How well I remember these old familiar scenes!" he said. "Here is the house where I was born. Here is the old well and there the garden patch. Yonder are the woods, and there is the meadow. Along the meadow is the row of stately trees where I picked chestnuts when I was a mere lad!"

"Yes," broke in an old neighbor, who seemed to be a bit bored, "and you have been peddling them ever since."

Whereupon the meeting closed.—Saturday Evening Post.

Why Cabby Smiled.

"When I was in Paris," said the girl who has just got home, "I took a French lesson every day. It was my custom to write it down on one side of a card and my address on the other, the address very plain so that the cabbie could read it and take me home if I happened to get lost."

"One day I handed a cabbie the card with the address on it. He looked at me in a puzzled way, then smiled sweetly. I took the card and looked at it. I had handed it to him with my daily lesson on the top side. The lesson was, 'I am pleased to meet you,' written in French."—Exchange.

ROLLS DOWN HILL TO GET AID.

EASTON, Pa., Sept. 7.—John Baier, a young man of this city, was waylaid and robbed while returning from a visit to the south side last night. He was found this morning bound and gagged. As Baier was passing a dark and lonely point he was struck from behind and felled. After recovering consciousness some time later, and being unable to undo his bonds, Baier rolled down a hill to a group of houses. Crawling on to a doorstep, he summoned aid. He could not describe his assailants, but said that he had been relieved of about $20.

Walk a Crack?

Most men cannot walk in a straight line with their eyes open, and none ever lived that could do so with his eyes shut. Try it. It is an aged saying that a man follows his nose, and there never was a nose since Adam that stood straight in front of a face. All of us are afflicted with either sinistorsion or dextrosion—that is, in walking we veer either to the left or to the right. It cannot be helped. Set up two posts on the lawn and bet a million that no man or woman in the crowd can walk from one to the other without anfractuosity. There's a swell word for you. Anfractuosity—that's where you get a wiggle on—walk wab-bly.—Bangor (Me.) News.

What the Hydra Was.

There have been many strange things in English history. One of the most curious was recently mentioned by a little schoolgirl.

"The hydra," said this much informed young person, "was married to Henry VIII. When he cut her head off, another one sprang right up."—Youth's Companion

OUR COIN MOTTO.

"In God We Trust" Suggested by a Maryland Farmer.

To an honest, God fearing farmer of the state of Maryland is due the motto, "In God we trust," which appears on the coinage of the United States.

In 1861, when Salmon P. Chase was secretary of the treasury, he wrote to him that as we claimed to be a Christian people we should make some suitable recognition of that fact on our coinage.

The letter was referred to James Pollock, director of the mint, who discussed the matter in his report for 1862. Congress was apathetic, and Chase mentioned it to the lawmakers again in 1863.

"The motto suggested, 'In God our trust,' is taken from our national hymn, 'The Star Spangled Banner.' The sentiment is familiar to every citizen of our country. It has thrilled millions of American freemen. The time is propitious; 'tis an hour of national peril and danger, an hour when man's strength is weakness, when our strength and salvation must be of God."

As a result a two cent bronze piece was authorized by congress to be coined the following year, April 22, 1864, and upon this was first stamped the motto, "In God we trust." By an act of March 3, 1865, it was extended to other coins.—Minneapolis Journal.

WANTED SOME FLOWERS.

The Woman's Order Started the High Priced Florist.

A woman went into a fashionable New York florist's store one day to buy some flowers for a sweet girl graduate.

"I want to get some flowers for a young lady who is to graduate tomorrow," she said. "What have you?"

"How would some American Beauties do?" asked the florist.

"What are they worth?"

"The best are $7 a dozen."

"The woman thought a moment. 'Have you none cheaper?' she asked. 'Yes,' said the florist, 'we have some with short stems for $3 and $4.'"

She looked at the carnations. "How much are these?" she asked.

"We have them for 50 cents a dozen and 75 cents a dozen."

"Would carnations do for a graduation present?"

"Yes, indeed."

"Will you tie them up with ribbon?"

"Yes."

"Will you mix the colors?"

"Yes."

"Well," said the woman after a moment's hesitation, "you may give me a red one and a white one."

The florist gasped. "Shall I put them in separate boxes?" he asked.—Exchange.

ANCIENT TRICKSTERS. LITERARY FORGERIES.

Queer Conjuring Feats of the Seventeenth Century.

SOME QUAIN OLD RECIPES.

Little Experiments in Which Boiling Heads Off Living Animals Was an Incident—How They Killed a Horse and Cured Him Again.

Conjurers in ancient times were not very respectable members of society. When successful they enjoyed the reputation of having sold their souls to the evil one, and when of inferior ability they gained notoriety by being either drowned or burned. The mediaeval magicians as well as the Egyptian magi and the Chaldean sages were only a strange mixture of chemist, conjurer and charlatan, and as these gentlemen were in the habit of using their supposed occult powers to their own advantage they were naturally unpopular. The feats of jugglery performed by these craftsmen were intended for the mystification and not the amusement of the public, and for centuries conjuring had to it only a black side.

The amateur conjurer of today is not always a popular individual, save with children and the unsophisticated yokels. To the general public he is merely a bore of greater or less magnitude, whose performance is so obvious as to deceive no one. It is hard to realize that this person is no mere mushroom growth of modern society, but in point of fact his role is one of a respectable antiquity, for he is to be found treading close upon the heels of the magicians and in the days when witchcraft was still rampant. This is significant of his reputation even in those early times, for had any one taken his tricks seriously he would doubtless have been run to earth and done to death as a wizard.

In the middle of the seventeenth century, in the earliest years of the restoration, a number of tricks were published in one of those facetious books which seem to have occupied the press to a great extent at this time, but which owing to their popularity have for the most part perished. The chief recommendation of the greater number of these tricks is that no apparatus beyond the utensils of everyday life is necessary; also it is suggested to the performer that he can make some small profit out of his entertainment by prevailing on his audience to bet with him on the result of the trick.

"To set a horse's or an ass's head upon a man's head and shoulders" seems impossible out of the land of Faery, but we are informed that by boiling the head cut off a living animal "the flesh body'd may runne into oyle," and then by mingling the hair beaten into powder with this oil and anointing the heads of the standers-by "they shall seem to have horses' or asses' heads"—a costly experiment and fearsome if successful.

But, besides this, one can "make people seem headless," and this without bloodshed and by the following simple recipe: "Break arsenick very fine and boyle it with sulphur in a cover'd pot and kinde it with a new candle, and the standers-by will seem to be headlesse." Doubtless a strong imagination is necessary for success.

Some of the tricks are such as would nowadays cause the performer to be disliked, to put it mildly. For instance, "have a nut filled with ink and give this unto another and bid him crack it and see what he can find in that
